

Equality is at the heart of everything the National Union of Journalists does.

NUJ Pride is a forum which celebrates and supports our LGBT members and provides a safe place for members to discuss our professional lives and the media organisations we work for.

Our aim is to stamp out all forms of discrimination, particularly those which relate to LGBT members.

The NUJ supports union members who feel they are discriminated against as a result of their sexual orientation or trans-status.

The NUJ Pride website is open to all but it can also be used as a confidential forum to discuss difficult issues.

The NUJ challenges discrimination in workplaces, the media and society - we work with other organisations to achieve our aims - but we need your help.

Tell us where discrimination still exists and help us publicise and celebrate progress and good practice.

NUJ Pride is the destination for LGBT members and those who support us. Join us, proudly.
